BERNE WRITES HE IS TRAINING DUTIFULLY

William Berne, the Russian wrestler, who will meet Ajax's unknown here Christmas afternoon in the Air-dome, writes as follows to The Bonanza's "Sporting editor," a personage whom we have as yet been unable to locate:

Dear Sir: I am training very hard for my coming match in your city on the 25th, and I am glad to state that I am in good condition to put up the best bout with the Unknown. If the Unknown is as tough as I am, I expect to have a hard battle. I am training at Venice Beach with a few good men of the Los Angeles A. C.

I had a few letters from my countrymen saying that the Unknown is William Demetral, or Ed Santell, or Martin. If it is either one of them, and they can best me, they can have my best wishes, but they will have to work pretty hard to beat me.

I will leave here on the 20th over the Southern Pacific, and as the manager of Bishop wants to see me for a match in January, to meet six miners there, I will talk it over with him when the train stops at Laws.

I will be in Tonopah on the 21st or 22nd. Hoping this finds you O. K., as it leaves me at present, I am

Yours truly,

WM. BERNE.

P. S.—Regards to all friends.

STRANGE FOSSILS TELL OF POLIOCENE TIMES

(By Associated Press.)

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 17.—The past history of Europe and Asia, in the long-vanished Pliocene age, has at last been more closely linked up with that of America. The clock time for the Pliocene period, has now been regulated by Prof. John C. Merriam of the University of California, by comparing the extinct animals of the old world with the extinct horses, camels, rhinoceroses, bears, hyenas, elephants and tigers he has discovered in the rocks of Mount Diablo, the region west of Tulare Lake, on the Mojave desert, and elsewhere in California and in Nevada, Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Professor Merriam maintains that extinct Hipparchian horses, which in Pliocene times roamed the valleys of California, must have crossed over to Asia by an old land bridge, now sunk beneath the sea, because their descendants flourished later in the old world, as proved by the presence of Hipparchian horses in the Schansi and Homan beds of China, in the Pikermi beds of Greece, and in the Maragha beds of Persia. So, also, the rhinoceroses of the Dhok Pathan beds of India descended from the same ancestors as the Tetraceras rhinoceroses found in the Rattlesnake beds in Central Oregon and in the Thousand Creek beds of Northwestern Nevada.

In California exists a monument of the whole Pliocene age, unbroken and complete, such as has been discovered nowhere else in the world. This is the Etchegoin-Tulare beds, a single group of deposits on the western border of the San Joaquin valley, in which is paralleled the whole history of the Pliocene age in Europe, Asia and the whole of America. These Etchegoin-Tulare beds are more than ten thousand feet in thickness. This means that they represent so vast a stretch of time that the waste of erosion was washed down into the sea until this water-carried material had piled up to a depth of ten thousand feet.

(By Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—Representative Baer of North Dakota introduced a bill to appropriate $50,000,000 to aid western farmers in buying seed and grain as feed for livestock. He said that because of drought in some portions many western farmers may be unable to crop their farms or maintain livestock in 1918.

TONOPAH BOYS FARE WELL THANKSGIVING

Ralph Wardle has received from his son, Austin R. Wardle, a copy of the Thanksgiving menu of the 37th Aero Squadron, "somewhere back east." Young Wardle is a lance corporal in the squadron and Charles J. Stitt, also of Tonopah, is a corporal in the same division.

The menu is interesting as indicating the kind of "grab" our boys are getting in the army. It follows:

Oyster Soup
Crackers (Square Butter)
Green Olives Celery
Roast Young Turkey
with Dressing, Cranberry Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Giblet Gravy
Brussels Sprouts
Lobster Salad
Bread, Real Butter
Mince Pie Pumpkin Pie
Nuts and Raisins
Fruit Cake
Apples Oranges Bananas
Candy Melachino Cigarettes

VERDI COMPANY WINS AGAINST RAY HOLBROOK

The Verdi Lumber company won its suit against Ray Holbrook for the cost of material put into the dance floor of the Louvre cabaret, in the basement of the Kendall building. The cabaret owner departed, leaving his unpaid bills behind him, but the Verdi company maintained that Helen P. Duvall, owner of the Kendall building, failed to post legal notices that she would not be liable for the bills. The company's contentions were upheld by the district court and she must meet the bills. The findings follow:

The above-entitled cause (Verdi Lumber Company, a corporation, plaintiff, vs. Ray Holbrook et al, defendants) having been tried by the court when sitting without a jury, the decision thereof is hereby rendered in writing by the judge who tried the cause, who briefly states in his opinion the facts found and the conclusions of law reached:

Facts found:

The facts are as stated in the complaint and the reply, except as otherwise indicated by the opinion attached hereto, filed herewith and made a part hereof.

Conclusions of law reached:

The plaintiff is entitled to judgment in accordance with the prayer of its complaint, including costs and an attorney fee in the sum of $50.36. Wherefore, let judgment be entered accordingly.

Counsel for plaintiff is hereby directed to prepare findings of fact and conclusions of law in accordance herewith and to submit the same for approval. The formal findings should by reference thereto adopt the opinion filed herewith to the extent that the same passes upon the facts of the case.

BEN MARTY, accompanied by his wife and child, departed this morning for Bryant, Fresno county, California, where he goes to engage in a hog raising enterprise upon his 160-acre farm.

MISS BETHEL ROBINS, who has been visiting relatives in Nevada City for the past two weeks, returned this morning and will resume her position as bookkeeper at the local Western Union office.

SWIMMING POOL LEAK TROUBLE ELIMINATED

One little boy went to the swimming pool, and in utter disregard of the danger attendant upon getting a chill by leaving the warm atmosphere of the pool building for the sharp cold outside, left his union suit behind him in his dressing room. Why he discarded that rather necessary portion of his raiment is a mystery, though it is supposed that he desired to simplify the operation of getting dressed, a job that everybody knows a small boy detests.

Because Van Halberg, the plumber, was temporarily indisposed, the shower could not be finished on time. It will be completed for next Tuesday, however. All difficulties as to leaks caused by expansion from the steam have been overcome.

Mrs. George J. Merriam, of the swimming pool management committee, spent all of her Sunday in supervision of the pool.

EARLE WILLIAMS AT THE BUTLER.

Earle Williams, the celebrated and popular screen star, supported by Corinne Griffith, will appear at the Butler this evening in "The Love Doctor," one of the most unusual screen dramas ever filmed. It tells the thrilling story of a famous surgeon who molded the destinies of two women—he meddled with destiny only to find that his power was as nothing compared with the power of a woman's love.

A noted surgeon is called to the side of a girl rescued from the slums suffering from a brain affection. Her only chance of life is in an operation. "Remove all moral weakness from her brain and return it to mine. I can stand the consequences," he ordered the operating surgeon, and it was done.

Years before he loved that same girl, but she apparently was born devoid of passion. There was another girl of directly opposite type who made the surgeon the object of her intense infatuation. He got the two girls into his hospital and performed operations, inter-changing brains, hoping to make the girl capable of feeling love, and hoping also to save the other from the gutter. In the latter case he was successful, but the girl he loved, carried away by her passions, ran away from home and friends and became a derelict. "The Love Doctor" tells this unusual and powerful story with an all-star cast, with the popular favorite, Earle Williams in the leading role.

In addition to the feature, the latest release of Hearst-Pathe News will be shown, with scenes of all notable events.

Tomorrow, Fannie Ward, the noted Lasky star, in "Her Strange Wedding," and Ford Educational Weekly. Do not fail to see Mae March on Wednesday. G-r-e-a-t!

WEATHER FORECAST.

Forecast for the week beginning Sunday, December 16, 1917:

Southern Rocky Mountain and Plateau Regions—Generally fair weather without decided changes in temperature.

Pacific States—A rainy week, with mild temperature in Washington and Oregon; rains in Northern California early part of week, latter part probably fair without decided temperature changes. Southern California generally fair, without severe cold.

NOVEL SIGN AIDS DRIVE.

The Red Cross sign placed on the Masonic building has caused a good deal of comment by its novelty and promises to stimulate the work of getting members in the drive now being conducted. Elmer Tansey painted it and Signpainter Le Beaume put it up, both of them donating their services. The little Red Cross nurse who is so dauntlessly leaving America's shores for Europe will advance as the drive for members progresses. By noting her progress one may be apprised of the latest addition in membership. The securing of Nye's full quota will bring the little flag right to the shores of France.

MRS. P. McKELVEY and daughters, Irene and Dorothy, of Millers spent Saturday shopping in Tonopah, returning home that evening.

ARMISTICE PROVISION

the purpose of maintaining order, is said to have informed the consular officials that in the future it would be impossible for him to be responsible for the conduct of the affairs. The foreign consuls at Harbin suggest that the Chinese, supported by the entente powers, take over the railway and railway zone.

Four battalions of Chinese troops have arrived at Harbin and are assisting the non-Bolshevik soldiers to maintain order. The situation in Northern Manchuria is said to be precarious.

(By Associated Press.)

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—(via London)—An armistice between the Bolshevik government in Russia and the Teutonic allies was signed at Brest Litovsk Saturday, according to an official communication just issued. The armistice becomes effective at noon today and is to remain in force until January 14.

A provision in the armistice agreement is that peace negotiations are to begin immediately after the signing of the armistice.
